

Sentence embeddings

A sentence embedding is a numerical vector that represents the meaning of text. Semantically similar passages have vectors that are close together in embedding space, even when they use different words.

Chunking

Long documents are split into overlapping chunks before embedding. Smaller chunks can be more precise, while larger chunks retain more surrounding context. Chunk overlap helps avoid losing meaning at boundaries.